Therapeutic Recreation Programs

Science Explorers

Play and discovery, are two of a young child's most powerful cognitive and social learning tools. Building these skills in children and youth with a special needs, will maximize their capacity for positive interactions and overall recreational and social engagement. Our Science Explorer program was developed by our team of Recreation Therapists to create an opportunity for social skills, critical thinking, attention and focus and peer to peer interaction through various science experiments to encourage multi-sensory discovery!
